11 Apr 79Extract from the Staff Meeting Minutes of 11 April 1979:

Hitz reported that, at the moment, results of budget markups on the Hill are hard to get hold of, but his sources indicate that the situation is generally good, e.g., [] is surviving and the [] briefing on [] was successful. Representatives Mineta and Robinson appear to have been effective in dealing with Representative Burlison. However, questions on the [] alternatives have the Director "in the middle" at the moment. Hitz is exploring several ways to pass [] alternative recommendations to appropriate people on the Hill. He will consult with others before moving ahead on this. (Action: LC) []

Extract from the Staff Meeting Minutes of 11 April 1979:

Hitz suggested that it could be useful to invite Senator Huddleston to Headquarters for discussions on charter legislation before Tony Lapham leaves his post. This would probably help to break the current deadlock in the Charters Committee. The Committee seems to be confused by signals from the White House, centering for one thing on the Hughes-Ryan Amendment. Mr. Carlucci pointed out that the Hughes-Ryan Amendment in this instance is not truly significant. Mr. Carlucci feels that a memo on this whole matter to the Vice President might help to get things moving. He asked Lapham to develop one. (Action: GC)
